structions seem quite superfluous.

This general harmony in the Republican party is due mainly to three causes: The party has a definite and well tried policy; it has been fortunate in finding able leaders; toward new issues which arise it has first choice and always takes the popular and American side of the question.

WHEN "Unk" To Cannon enlisted for the chairmanship of the Illinois convention, it was with the understanding that its work would not be postponed until after the election.

WHEN the Illinois convention re-assembles in the expectation of nominating a candidate for Governor, why not drop the three present contestants and make a Hitt?
